SPORTS OF THE DAY

MATCHED TO RUN A MILE

Aggravation and Virgie A. Go for $500 in Two Weeks—Lei Lehua Athletics.

Thomas Hollinger's Aggravation and Messrs. Moore and Hancock's Virgie A are matched to run a mile for $250 a side on the 20th instant, and forfeits were posted yesterday afternoon. The distance is rather a surprise, for it was generally thought that seven furlongs would be the limit if the two were matched again.

Hollinger is still very sore over the defeat of Aggravation by Virgie A last month, and this time will leave no effort unspared to secure a capable jockey. His mare will be better served by the extra furlong.

George Thomas is trying to get a match with Watossa, and there is a strong probability that his horse will be matched against the winner of the race on the 20th. The Virgie A people wanted to run against Watossa on the 13th, but that was too soon for Thomas.

J. R. Wilson is expected down from Hilo on the next Kinau. He is said to have sent instructions to a friend in Honolulu to match Watossa against Aggravation or Virgie A for anything up to $1,000.

On Wednesday afternoon the small boys at the High School carried out a program of athletic sports. The boys have formed the Lei Lehua Athletic Club, and none of its members are over sixteen years of age. They managed the games themselves, and did it very creditably.

The events were of an exciting nature and keenly contested by the youngsters. Robbie Clarke took five firsts and two seconds in seven starts. The sports were witnessed by many schoolmates and friends of the contestants.

Summaries:
50-yard dash—1. Sonny Gay; 2. R. Clarke; 3. Lem Williams.
Shot put (12 pounds)—1. R. Clarke; 2. Sonny Gay; 3. George McCarriston.

High jump—1. En Det Ching; tie for second place between R. Clarke and J. Ferreira.

440-yard run—1. Sonny Gay; 2. Geo. McCarriston; 3. Tom Osborne.
Shot put (12 pounds)—1. R. Clarke; 2. Will Chillingworth; 3. E. Kellett.

Running broad jump—1. R. Clarke; 2. En Det Ching; 3. Sonny Gay.
Standing broad jump—1. R. Clarke; 2. En Det Ching; 3. M. Ferreira.

100-yard dash—1. R. Clarke; 2. Sonny Gay.

880-yard run—1. Tom Osborne; 2. M. Ferreira.
The wind-up of the program was a mile relay race between Lemuel Williams' team, consisting of Williams, R. Clarke, Harry Holt, Milton Alvarez, Will Chillingworth and Bob Chillingworth, and M. Ferreira's team was made up of Ferreira, En Det Ching, Sonny Gay, Harry White, Tom Osborne and Dickey Goshing. The former array of athletic talent won.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY

The new storage battery of M. Ernst Junger, which may be used also as a primary element, has the peculiarity of an electrolyte that does not vary in composition or concentration, the water alone being decomposed. This action is brought about by the use of potassium or sodium hydrate, whose metallic base decomposes water, and for the active material of the plates metals are used whose hydroxyl combinations cannot exist in presence of water, but are decomposed into oxide and water. The active matter is supported upon plates of metal, preferably nickel or copper, whose oxides are not soluble in alkali. To illustrate an element of this kind, the positive plate may be of nickel, pasted with peroxide of silver, mixed with cement to give consistency; the negative is a copper plate upon which has been compressed a layer of finely divided copper. These electrodes, separated by a layer of asbestos paper, are placed in an ebonite cell, with an alkaline solution as electrolyte. The expense is reduced by using ferrous oxide at the negative plate, and black oxide of manganese at the positive. As an accumulator, this element holds its charge a long time, and it seems to be unaffected by temperature changes.

With a platinum resistance thermometer, Professor Dewar has determined the boiling point of hydrogen to be 238.5 degrees below zero Centigrade, or 34.6 degrees above absolute zero. Another method of measurement gives the still lower result of 252.5 below zero, or only 21 degrees above the absolute zero.

Even the sculptor may thank modern machinery for doing the drudgery of his art. The new machine of Signor Buontempi, an Italian artist, makes reproductions automatically, and is stated to cut marble as if it were cheese, and to carve other stone even more easily. Any kind of power is used. The machine consists of a horizontal rod having at one end a blunt wooden traveler that follows closely the lines of the model, and at the other end a steel gouge, that makes vertical grooves down the marble. With the first passage of a coarse gouge the outline begins to appear, finer and finer instruments being used until the detail is finished with a gouge no larger than a bodkin. The machine finishes the work to within a sixteenth of an inch of the size of the model, and then the sculptor gives expression and individuality in final touches.

The taste of natives of India in selecting a horse or an ox would seem to us peculiar. They value these animals almost entirely, Mr. J. D. E. Holmes reports, by the presence or situation of certain "hair-marks," these marks being formed by certain changes in the direction of the hair, and having shapes giving the names of crown, ridge and feather marks. The colors preferred for a horse are white, dun, gray and piebald. But a white bullock is held as of small value, and a black one is regarded as vicious.

The remarkable effect of spongy platinum in causing chemical union by its presence is surpassed by the catalytic action of metallic nickel, which has been reduced from its oxide at low temperature. This metal causes the direct combination of hydrogen with ethylene and acetylene, and leads to many other striking reactions.

LIMEJUICERS BEAT ICARIANS

Teetotally Play Around Them Yesterday Afternoon at Makiki.

In a game of Association football remarkable for its superlative mediocrity the men of England defeated the Icarians yesterday afternoon, at Makiki, by 7 goals to nil. The sailors showed no traces of the dashing form which they displayed when here before, and their South Sea cruise has evidently been detrimental to their ability as football players. They showed no combination whatever, and their exhibition was dull and unenthusiastic. The winners played a surprisingly good game, and another contest between them and the league champions is being considered. Last Saturday Scotland defeated the visitors by 3 goals to 1, and yesterday England did the same thing by the much wider margin of 7 goals to nil. The Britishers argue from this that they possess an excellent chance of avenging past defeats at the hands of the Hoot Mons should the teams meet again.

Johnnie Catton refereed the game, and his work was weird and marvellous. At least once during the game he blew his whistle, and his action created a small sensation among the spectators, who could discover no reason for the music. Catton stated afterwards that he was so absorbed in the game that he used his instrument absent-mindedly, and with no malice aforethought. This same mental abstraction on the referee's part was also responsible for the prolonging of the second half of the game at least ten minutes beyond the proper time.

The Icarians defended the Beretania street goal during the first half, which resulted in three goals being placed to the credit of the home team. The only feature of the half was a brilliant run by Morse, topped off by a magnificent shot which all but took effect.

The sailors pressed considerably at the commencement of the second half, and put the ball through only to receive an off-side decision. Goals came with extreme frequency for the limejuicers, and nearly every one took his turn at shooting at goal, the majority successfully. The agony ended with the score standing 7 to 0 in favor of the city players.

For the Icarians, Soper, Blackman, Morse and Donald Ross played particularly well, the latter keeping goal during the latter half in workmanlike manner. George Davies showed improvement on his previous exhibitions, and will with practice play a fair game.

The losers account for their poor showing by the fact that two of their regular team have deserted, while another is on the sick list.

The teams were as follows:
England—Goal, Parish; backs, Donald Ross, Soper; halves, Harvey, Blackman (captain), Stokes; forwards, Morse, Irvine, Davies, Lansdale, Bidell.

H. M. S. Icarus—Goal, Stead; backs, Pitcher, Morris; halves, Thorp, Angus, Stiles; forwards, Jeandron, McDonald, Milne, Bird, Stone.

Referee—L. G. Blackman.

Linesman—H. B. Sinclair.

Tomorrow afternoon the Icarians will play against a team representing the league.
